Eritrea Miriam's Story

After her husband was martyred for his faith, Miriam was sent to prison. There, she was raped by one of the guards and became HIV-positive. After her release from prison, Miriam hid her diagnosis out of shame. Whenever she went to the clinic to get her medicine, she covered her face with a shawl so that no one would recognize her.

Recently, VOMK met with her to provide trauma care and to remind her that in overcoming her shame, she could have a powerful ministry to other women in the same situation as her, who are also suffering silently in shame.

Many of Eritrea's Christians have been imprisoned and tortured. Some have fled to Ethiopia, where they are kept in impoverished refugee camps. But you can support your Eritrean brothers and sisters in the midst of their suffering.
