SUNDAY SCHOOL IN A BOX

Give these children their Sunday School back... in a box!

The Chinese Communist Party recently issued guidelines requiring that all curriculum undergo political review to ensure that it promotes the "spirit of Xi Jinping Thought" and traditional Chinese cultural values.

VOMK representative Hyun Sook Foley notes, "At both school and church, they are now taught that Xi Jinping, not Jesus Christ, is effectively the Lord of China. But we see God using the increasingly severe governmental restrictions to cause more Chinese Christians to take responsibility for the evangelism and discipleship of their own children. Now the greatest need is to equip parents for this task."

Chinese church leaders requested VOM Korea to provide them with 5,000 "Sunday School in a Box" packages within 12 months. The boxes consist of materials that are still legal in some locations in China but not readily available: the leading legal children's Bible in China, a compact video player, and a comprehensive curriculum of digital resources for parents and children.

So far VOM Korea has supplied funds for 4,700 boxes. But 300 boxes are still needed.

The cost for one Sunday School in a Box is 75,000 KRW. Anyone interested in making a donation to the Sunday School in a Box project can do so by visiting www.vomkorea.com/en/donation or via electronic transfer to:
